PROBLEMS ENCOUNTERED

- It is difficult to make a sign in sheet when I don't know who is definitely going to be at my event.
- I handled this problem by writing the names down of all the people that signed up and the day before my event, I will alphabetize them.

Journal

For this step in my senior project, my task was to complete the sheets for my event (i.e. time sheet and sign-up sheet), and decide exactly what is going on with my project. For the day of the project, I was thinking about having food for my event to give people something to do while they are waiting. For the food, I chose hot dogs because they are the normal primary food at home run derbies. I was thinking and it came to me that my topic s child hood obesity and hot dogs aren't the healthiest choice and they basically contradict my project itself. I talked to my consultant about this dilemma and he said that if we got the low fat hot dogs, it wouldn't contradict my project.

A problem I came into with my project this week was that I needed to fill out a sign-up sheet to check people off the day of my event. The problem is is that I don't know who all is coming because some people aren't RSVP'ing. Also, they don't RSVP in ABC order, so as one comes in, I have to rearrange my whole sheet. I just started making a list and the day before my event, I am going to put it in a chart alphabetized.

During this time, I also made a time sheet to organize how I want my project to flow. I made check in/sign-up from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Then from 11 a.m. to about 11:30 a.m., my guest speaker will talk and I will talk briefly about my paper and why I am doing this event. From 12:00 p.m. to about 1:00 p.m., the middle school participants will play, and I will "crown" the winner. From around 1:15 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. the high school participants will play, and I will "crown" the winner after that, if there are no ties between contestants. Around 1:30, I will thank everybody for coming and supporting the Boys and Girls Club of America, and we will take a group picture and my project will be over!
